

Culturally Responsive Teaching at SOU

Friday, January 24 9am-12pm

Rogue River Room, Stevenson Union

Free workshop featuring Matthew Reynolds

Culturally Responsive Teaching is a pedagogy that recognizes the importance of including students' cultural references in all aspects of learning. — Ladson-Billings, 1994

First step: Building a personal equity lens!

- What does it mean?
- Where do we begin?
- Why does it matter?
- What does it look like?
- How do we talk about it?

About Matthew Reynolds

Having lived in a variety of communities and countries, Matthew has thoroughly honed his communication skills and paired them with an innate generosity toward the perspectives of others. With over 15 years as a teacher in secondary education, he's passionate about disseminating knowledge. A focus on the performing arts has tuned his ability to reach minds and change hearts through multiple avenues of learning and processing.

Professional Awards & Recognition

- Top 5 finalist for Oregon Teacher of the Year, 2018
- Honorable Mention, Excellence in Theatre Education Award, presented by the Tony Awards and Carnegie Mellon University, 2018
- Teacher of the Year Crater Renaissance Academy, 2009
- Awarded "Volunteer and Educator" of the year, SOU Queer Resource Center, 2006

Sponsored by the Center for the Advancement of Teaching and Learning and the Culturally Responsive Teaching Innovation Community at SOU

Register online by visiting the CATL Programs page: <https://inside.sou.edu/catl/programs.html>