

4/5/19 - Per Joan McBee: Final course description should read as follows:

BA 596 - Building Decision-Making and Business Analysis Models Using Excel

4 credits

Develops advanced Excel skills in designing and developing decision models in business analysis. Students apply advanced Excel functions and procedures in developing interactive business decision making models and tools for use in the areas of finance, accounting, operations management, and management science. This course is suitable for students who have successfully completed most of the core courses in finance, operations management, and accounting in their respective programs. Students must be functionally skilled using more advanced Excel functions. Prerequisite: BA285 or instructor permission
Graded (A-F) only